IMPOSTURES.

The order of the Postmaster-General to the Postmasters throughout the country, directing them to retain all le ters received at their offices addressed to fictitious names, has fallen like a wet blanket upon a class of sharpers who have grown rich in practising on the credulity of the public. There are half a dozen or more of this class located in Albany, whose profits have been seriously affected by the order of the Postmaster-General. One has grown to opulence by advertising that he is the manufacturer of "love powders," which "possess the power of charming to your embraces the proudest beauties and the most intractable of the sterner sex." These powders are sent by mail at three dollars a box. They cannot cost the manufacturer much more than three cents each. He assures the gullible that the use of one box is generally sufficient; a second is almost certain to captivate the coldest; but in rare instances a third must be resorted to. That, however, was never known to fail! The victim receives the first and second boxes in return for his six dollars; but he never gets a return for his third investment. He might write fifty times after that to the love powder man, but he will receive no answer.

Another sharper advertises that he is the manufacturer of bogus coin, which will pass for good even at the mint-a description of coin that will successfully stand all chemical Certificates of packag's 26 whole tickets $200 00 tests and defy the shrewdest bank detectives. The rogue who would deal safely in bogus money sends five dollars to purchase some. He receives in return ten dollars in good coin manufactured at the mint. The sharper is now out five dollars, but his victim, finding a profit to him of fifty per cent., concludes to go to work on a larger scale. He sends fifty and expects one hundred of the perfect "bogus" in return; but he hears no more from the coin operator, who by giving ten dellars for five dollars, gains fifty dollars. This fellow, it will be perceived, is completely secure from criminal prosecution. He does not deal in bogus coin at all, and his victims dare not complain, because in doing so they would be compelled to admit to the world that they were anxious to operate in counterfeit money.

Another advertises that for the moderate sum of fifty dollars he will impart to any lawyer a secret that will, beyond all chance, enable him to win every suit in which he may be engaged, whether of law or love. The charm consists in the possession of the eyes of a very rare Egyptian fowl which none can procure but the advertiser! Strauge as it may seem, this fellow has caught some fiats and pocketed their money. When asked what return he proposed to make to one of his victims, he replied that he would go into State street, purchase a spring chicken, cook and eat the meat, extract the eyes and send them to the wistful lawyer, and if they could see further than his victim's eyes, of which he had no doubt, he might win the

These sharpers bear fictitious names, and hence all communications to them are retained. They will be sent to the dead letter

It may not be amiss to say that the general order effects a few in this city and elsewhere whose business is deemed by the public comparatively legitimate, but who, for reasons best known to themselves, have thought proper to conduct it under other names than their own. The difficulty with regard to them is very easily remedied. They have only to abandon their aliases and their letters cannot be withheld .- Albany Argus, of

The New York Herald understands that Mr. O. P. Hare of Virginia, has succeeded in obtaining the Fashion course, Long Island, for a series of races next fall, commencing on the 24th of September, and continuing, at intervals, for two weeks. The most brilliant feature of the affair, will be a handicap race, in which fifteen or sixteen will be entered .-The distance (two miles and a half, the same as the Goodwood) will be run in the same manner as the English handicap races, and will create a great excitement. We understand that such horses as Nicholas, Tar River, Slasher, Mary Evelyn, Joccossee, Shocco, Sue Washington, and others of this class, will run in this race, which will be for a magpificent piece of plate, valued at $1,000, nov in the course of manufacture by Messrs. Ball & Black, of Broadway, New York. This, together with the entrance money, &c., &c., will net the winner of the race several thousand dollars. In addition to the handicap race, there will be two four mile days during the meeting, besides others of shorter distances. The races at the South have been well attended throughout the spring, and the running generally has been most capital. Here at the North we have bad no racing at all .-The prospective sport, however, of September, will more than make amends for any disap-
